

Lufthansa Group introduces new interline options in its NDC channels

Lufthansa Group is introducing a significant enhancement to its NDC channels with the implementation of the United Airlines (UA) prime code. This enables the sale of Lufthansa Group - United Airlines interline itineraries, which will be available where:

- United Airlines prime flight number is combined with a Lufthansa Group flight number on the transatlantic segment
- Lufthansa Group is the fare owner and validating carrier
- Lufthansa Group codeshare is not available on a particular flight
- Origin or Destination is in IATA Traffic Conference Area 1 (North, Central, South America and the Caribbean) with connecting point in the US

With this implementation, Lufthansa Group's NDC channels expand to new destinations in the Americas, while also providing better coverage and more competitive options for transatlantic journeys.

This milestone represents another step forward in our NDC journey and highlights Lufthansa Group's commitment to its Atlantic Joint Venture, further strengthening collaboration and expanding travel options.

Travel agents can now shop Lufthansa Group - United Airlines interline itineraries via all Lufthansa Group's NDC connections (Direct API, NDC Aggregator & SPRK).
